

XYLO.

XYL93 / Junior Web Designer Studio Vacancy

A new opportunity has risen for a new junior web designer to join our busy studio.

As someone who lives and breathes the digital world, you will also need to love music, brands, socialising and everything that evolves around youth culture.

Working with the rest of the design team, you will have 2-3 years of designing websites from scratch, using flash or HTML with some CSS skills and understand front end development. You have experience redesigning MySpaces and Wordpress Blogs. Your style of design is more creative than technical which differentiates you from other web designers. You have solid experience with Adobe Creative Suite and can solve web problems by just looking at the source code.

Outside of design, you are a young and hungry individual. You are ambitious, fresh out of university or higher education and is yearning to take on work which would be usually be given to older individuals.

Please send CV + desired hourly salaries to will@xylodesign.co.uk .

The vacancy will be open until it is filled by the most appropriate candidate.

No agencies please.
